

March Heat Wave Continues; Cooler Air Is on Its Way

Albany, N. Y., March 29 (AP)—New York state's "tropical" March heat wave continued today with temperature maximums expected to be slightly under yesterday's record-breaking highs.

The U. S. Weather Bureau at Albany predicted the mercury generally would reach the high 70's but said cooler air was moving slowly toward the state and that tonight's minimums would be lower than last night's which ranged from the middle 40's to the 60's.

Thermometers rose to unprecedented heights yesterday in all sections of the state, breaking many date records and several all-time marks for the month.

Albany's 85 exceeded the all-time March record, set on March 22, 1938, by five degrees, and shattered the date record, set in 1921, by 10 degrees.

Rochester and Syracuse, each with 84, broke date records by nine and eight degrees respectively. Rochester's previous mark was set in 1905 and Syracuse's in 1910. The Syracuse record exceeded the all-time March high, recorded March 22, 1938, by two degrees.

Previous record broken New York city's 81 broke the previous March record of 80.4 established only eight days previously.

The heat wave extended into the Adirondacks where Canton's 80 topped the March 27, 1921 record by two degrees.

Other maximums: Columbiaville 83, Glens Falls 84; Utica 83, Rome 82, Elmira 82, Fort Plain 82 and Binghamton 81.

Meteorologist Ernest J. Christie of the U. S. Weather Bureau at Albany, describing the heat wave as "tropical," explained:

"For the last several days there has been a continuous flow of hot air from the Caribbean Sea and the Gulf of Mexico up through the center of the U. S. A. and easterly across New York state."

Travel Is Quickened

New York, March 29 (AP)—Warm spring sunshine sent thousands of New Yorkers out of town today, filling trains and buses as the Easter holiday week-end began.

Railroad officials said the travel peak was not expected until tonight and early tomorrow.

"We have everything we can handle now," the New York Central said, adding that trains had been sold out well in advance.

Incoming travel also was heavy, too.

Cool Weather for Easter

Albany, N. Y., March 29 (AP)—U. S. Meteorologist Ernest J. Christie scanned his weather maps thoroughly today and came up with this prediction for Easter Sunday—"Cool and cloudy, with some possibility of showers."

Christie said there would be a gradual cooling-off today, Friday and Saturday from yesterday's record-breaking heat, with the change most definitely noticeable in western New York today.

Something's in the Air

London, March 29 (AP)—A sharp increase in the flow of government communications between the capitals of the "Big Three"—often a sign of important developments in the making—coincided today with the sensational advance of Gen. Eisenhower's forces. There was nothing concrete in diplomatic quarters to support the feeling in London that victory was near, but reliable reports said members of Prime Minister Churchill's war cabinet had been ordered to remain close to their posts. Arrangements also have been made to call Parliament back into session if necessary during the eight-day Easter recess.

Price Control Act Extended 1 Year

O.P.A. Promises to Right Its Policy Practices

Washington, March 29 (AP)—Extension of the price control act for one year without change was approved today by the Senate Banking Committee.

The decision was reached after O.P.A. officials assured the committee they would try by administrative means to adjust policy practices against which some business groups have complained.

Chairman Wagner (D-N.Y.) told reporters he thought the committee action was now "all set" but that it could, of course, change its mind and recommend amendments before filing its report. The report probably will not be filed until next week.

In approving an extension of the act without change, the committee not only turned down amendments asked by industry groups but a series of changes proposed by Price Administrator Chester Bowles.

The O.P.A. chief had recommended that he be empowered to place ceilings on movie tickets and barber and beauty shop charges. He also asked that rent for business establishments be brought under control.

Still another Bowles proposal was for action to halt what he called the inflation of real estate and securities. On this latter proposal, the committee sentiment was described as being that any action taken should be handled as separate legislation rather than included in the price control law.

Kingston Chapter No. 155, O. E. S., will be honored by the official visit of R. W. Lena Middaugh, district deputy grand master, accompanied by R. W. Joseph Carberry, district grand lecturer, on Friday evening, April 6, in the Masonic Temple at 8 p. m.

Dinner preceding the meeting will be held at the Stuyvesant Hotel at 6 p. m. Those wishing to attend the dinner are urged to make their reservations not later than April 3 with Mrs. Herbert Powell, Mrs. Andrew Reis or Mrs. Arthur J. Keator.

On Pins and Needles

Washington, March 29 (AP)—The weather has fruit growers and government food officials sitting on pins and needles over prospects for this year's fruit crop. Under the influence of unusually warm weather the past two weeks, fruit trees are in full bloom as far north as Kansas, southern Missouri, and along the Ohio river valley. Fruit buds are swelling as far northward as Michigan.

Farm Women Ask About Short-Cuts To Conserve Time

Interested in Methods of Preserving Food; Demonstrations To Be Given

Twenty women met at the Ulster County Home Bureau office on March 28 to sign a program request for 1945-46. Each chairman presented the requests from her unit, all of which were analyzed by those present as to the value to the county as a whole or their interest for the individual units.

The fact that Ulster County homemakers are busier than ever is shown by their requests for short cuts in meal planning and preparation. With the shortage of cheese the unit having enough milk available are asking for help in cheese making. Making of bread and rolls is a popular choice among units.

In addition to general information on food preservation, many homemakers around the county want demonstrations on proper methods of freezing foods. Special help will be given on smoking herring and shad and the canning of fish.

Local leaders were so successful with their lessons on tailored dresses that interested units will continue with construction of dresses next year. The specialist is asked to give help on good grooming. As a special benefit to new members, review lessons will be given on mending, dry cleaning and the making of pressed pairs. A new feature in the field of clothing is the planning for working meetings in various regions of the county where women will bring whatever garments they need help on. The county and local leaders will be on hand to give assistance.

Saving Furniture

In the line of housing, attention is turning to the making of partial slip covers as a means of extending the life of furniture during the war; lessons to be taught by the agent. Local leaders will teach the making of hooked mats. Special aids in laundry are planned for those interested in home management. In addition, the specialist will give assistance on planning arrangements for community meals so they can be prepared with a minimum of labor and time.

History and folklore of Ulster county will be continued as will the study of current national and international problems under the title "The World We Live In."

Those attending the meeting were Miss Etta Wolley, Mrs. Paul Laurie, Mrs. Arnold van Laer, Mrs. Giles Randall, Mrs. David Randall, Mrs. David DuBois, Mrs. Robert Kelder, Mrs. Eldred Smith, Mrs. Frank Coy, Mrs. Thomas Goodman, Mrs. Graham Parish, Mrs. Edward Van Steenburgh, Mrs. Lewis Palen, Mrs. Roy Conklin, Mrs. George Adams, Mrs. Joseph Furman, Mrs. Edward Davenport, Mrs. H. M. Eppes, Mrs. Millard Davis, Mrs. Ray LeFevre, Miss Everette Parsons and Mrs. Christian Ducker.

Maundy Thursday Church Services at Hurley

Financial and Commercial

New York, March 29 (AP)—Scattered rallies and industrials made further recovery headway in today's stock market although many leaders inclined to slip.

Dealings slowed appreciably after a fast start. Gains of fractions to a point or more were in the majority near the fourth hour.

The approaching European victory caused exceptional selectivity in the matter of purchases. Issues of companies with a favorable post-war outlook seemed to attract the most demand. While fears of immediate Washington moves against speculation waned, the realization that ultimate steps might be taken remained as an investment handicap.

President Pleased At Industrial Plan For Postwar Peace

Washington, March 29 (AP)—President Roosevelt voiced pleasure today with a labor-employer plan for postwar industrial peace and termed such cooperation essential to full employment when hostilities cease.

Two labor and one business leader worked out a "code of principles" to submit to their respective organizations with the idea of promoting "the maximum degree of industrial peace and prosperity in postwar America."

Mr. Roosevelt was advised of this step in a letter addressed to him jointly by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, Eric Johnston, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States and Philip Murray, president of the Congress of Industrial Organizations.

"I am very pleased," the President wrote in reply, "to learn of your plans to organize a committee of representatives of industry and organized labor to ensure the continued close cooperation between labor and management during the war and to make possible our great and unexcelled achievements in war production. That close cooperation must be continued to make possible the full employment of labor and capital under our system of free competitive enterprise when hostilities cease."

Green, Johnston and Murray, for their respective organizations, agreed to set up a national committee to attain cooperation.

Mr. Roosevelt said he would be happy to cooperate with the trio in every way possible and expressed the desire they would report periodically to him on the progress they make.

"The very act of the drafting of this charter," they told the President, "is proof positive that free Americans, acting on their own initiative, can unite for peace as well as war."

The plan received a chill reception, however, from the National Association of Manufacturers.

James L. Rowe, temporary chairman of the new organization, took the opportunity last evening to do one of the first official acts for the betterment of Kingston when he appointed a committee to call upon Governor Dewey next week and at such audience urge the governor to sign the Kingston-Rhinecliff ferry bill now before him. On the committee is Peter Keresman, Lloyd R. LeFevre, Edward M. Huben, Morris Samter and M. Reina. An appointment is to be made for this committee to have a personal interview with the governor and urge him to sign the bill which was proposed by Senator Wicks for operation of a state operated ferry here.

All action today at the meeting of committees last evening will be submitted to the city-wide meeting April 5 with the recommendations of the temporary committees. At the big organization meeting April 5 citizens of the city will have the opportunity to vote on the recommendations for a permanent organization.

One of the provisions relative to officers of the association which was discussed at length and finally agreed upon was the suggestion that the "rotary" system be put into effect for officers. This would provide that no officer be elected to succeed himself and that at least one year must elapse before an officer whose term expires can again be elected to office.

April Designated Cancer Control Month

By an act of Congress the month of April has been designated as "Cancer Control Month," and it is planned to make a house to house drive in the city to raise funds to carry on the work of the American Cancer Society in combating this dread disease.

"Volunteer women workers are needed," said Mrs. James H. Betts, commander of the Kingston Field Army, "and all women who are willing to devote some of their time to this work should get in touch with me, either by calling or writing."

This is the first major fund campaign of the society, and volunteer members of the city's Field Army in a house to house canvass will bring the hopeful facts about cancer to their neighbors and enlist their support in the fight against this disease which will kill 17,000,000 Americans now living unless the present cancer rate is checked.

Mrs. Betts said: "The facts of today's cancer record are shocking. One of every eight Americans dies of this disease. Last year alone it claimed 165,000 victims, and an estimated 600,000 Americans are suffering from it right now. The facts are shocking, but not hopeless. Actually, delay, ignorance and fear cause most of the cancer deaths today. If cancer is detected in the beginning stages a very high percentage of cure is possible. But the public must know the facts."

Last year, 35,000 of the 165,000 Americans who were victims of the disease could have saved themselves if they had known the "danger signals." Without the discovery of a single new fact, 4,000,000 to 6,500,000 of the 17,000,000 Americans now doomed to die of this disease can be spared if adequate facilities for the diagnosis and treatment of the disease and a broad, continuous program of education and research are provided. The American Cancer Society is ready to provide such a program. It requires the active and financial support of every American."

Newburgh Produce Man Fined $2,000 By Federal Judge

New York, March 28 (AP)—Abe Grenik, wholesale produce merchant of Newburgh, N. Y., was fined $2,000 and placed on probation today for six months by Federal Judge Alfred C. Cox after pleading guilty to an information charging overcharges of $15.21 in the sale of cases of lemons.

On motion of assistant United States Attorney Irving Tick, the court dismissed the information against Grenik and David Grenik, brothers of the defendant, operators with him of Grenik Brothers wholesale produce concern in Newburgh.

budget of $30,000 of which $10,000 will be held in reserve for such use as might be of benefit to the new organization. Membership in the organization was fixed at $25 a year and the matter of incorporating a "contributing or associate" membership at a lesser cost was left to the membership committee for further study. It was suggested that all "business" memberships be included in the $25 membership class.

The meeting Wednesday evening also agreed that a temporary financial secretary be appointed to carry on the functions of the new organization until such time as a permanent secretary could be secured. Such permanent secretary will have a convenient headquarters and shall carry on the work of the organization in conjunction with the president and board of directors.

A list of 35 names was presented by the nominating committee from which the following 21 names were selected to be recommended as a board of directors: Arthur J. Laidlaw, E. THREE-FOLD PURPOSE

The Annual Spring Clean-up Campaign now underway has a three-fold purpose this season for local housewives—fire prevention, salvage for the war effort and used clothing, shoes and bedding for the destitute.

Poor housekeeping is one of the major fire hazards. The National Fire Protection Association states that old material hidden away in closets, attics and basements, or the garage bred many of the fires which last year attacked American homes at the rate of one every 90 seconds.

Often the cause of spontaneous combustion and providing ready fuel to feed the spread of flames, this material is badly needed in the manufacture of many critical war materials.

Papers, boxes and old magazines are wanted in the waste paper salvage drive. Collections will be made in the various wards of the city beginning Saturday of this week in Wards 2 and 3. On subsequent Saturdays collections will be made in the other wards. Here is an opportunity to clean up and aid in the salvage of this critical war material.

It is estimated that 125,000,000 men, women and children in Europe are desperately in need of clothing, shoes and bedding. Deaths from exposure are said to equal the number due to starvation and malnutrition.

Clothing stored away and largely useless to the housewife should be given to this humanitarian cause.

For self-protection at home, to speed the day of victory abroad and to assist the destitute in the devastated areas of Europe—Clean Up Salvage and Clean Out!

PRESENT WARFARE

"Be copy now to men of grosser blood, and teach them how to war," urged King Henry in a famous address to his troops (as reported by William Shakespeare) at the opening of a famous battle long ago.

General Eisenhower has given similar "pep talks" to his vastly larger forces in recent days—not in person, but reaching through the microphone the ears of millions of men, both military and civilian. The time has come when an army leader of a king or a president can address directly nearly half the world.

The picture—along with the sound of modern implements of warfare—is no less impressive when attention is turned to the weapons themselves. The Allies are now using not only "block-busters" but "city-busters," enormous capsules weighing eleven tons or more. In a moment they can efface a small city, leaving only a dreadful hole in the ground, sulphurous to smell and terrible to look at. With these weapons men simply vanish from the earth.

We have become hardened to endurance of such things when visited upon the enemy, but we do not like to think of what they do to our friends. And let us hope that we shall never get hardened to such things. Painful as they are, it is well to suffer the pain, in order to create so powerful a protest against modern war that such horrors can never occur again.

We've known all along that the Nazis had no sense, and now it develops that they have no government, and don't know how to create one.

ONE-YOKE POETS

"There's where the tall corn grows," Everybody knows where that is, but few know the name of its author, George E. Hamilton, who has just died at 72. He wrote the Iowa corn song for a Shimer convention at Los Angeles in 1912, but never achieved another hit.

His is the experience of a good many other poets. "Home, Sweet Home" is universally familiar, but nothing else that John Howard Payne wrote is remembered today. Francis Scott Key never wrote anything else to compare with the "Star Spangled Banner."

Sometimes a poet writes not an immortal poem, but just one immortal line. Dean Burton, otherwise unknown to literature, described the ancient Arabian city of Petra, lying in a ravine of red sandstone, as "a rose-

CIVILIANS AT WAR

The American civilian has four functions in this war:

To supply by taxes, purchases of bonds, contributions to the Red Cross and similar organizations, the revenue required to pay the costs of our war and much of the costs of our Allies' war through Lend-Lease and similar devices;

To manufacture the implements of war, to grow and raise food and fibres and other items needed in the war, and to mine the metals and minerals required;

To grow and raise, as well, food for the American civilian population and our Allies and liberated peoples, and to manufacture as much goods and provide as many services for the civilian populations of this and the other countries as can be afforded.

With regard to these three functions, there is no disagreement. All the agencies of government and public opinion are focussed on emphasizing these responsibilities of the civilian. And anybody who criticizes the American people with regard to these categories is a dope and a liar, because no people on the face of the earth have produced as much food, as many manufactured items and contributed as much money as the Americans. We have done the job and we need apologize to no one.

When it comes to point four, however, there are plenty of misunderstandings, largely because reason is supplanted by emotion, the truth by propaganda. Yet it is precisely point four that is most important. It is the essence of the civilian's duty in war time. Let me state point four:

It is the duty of the civilian to protect the system of government, the economic structure, and the rights of the whole American people, including those engaged in battle outside the country, during the process of the war.

The editor of the Norfolk, Virginia, "Virginian-Pilot," discussing a piece of mine, makes this point: "Eleven million men of the nation are being subjected to worse chaos than could possibly threaten 'victims' of a national service act. But the whole nation is in the war. Not just the 11 million servicemen. And the sooner the nation's civilian manpower is assigned on the principle of first things first, the sooner will the war, and its chaos, end."

It is merely a question of the national service act, or the curfew, or the budget, or the results of Bretton Woods and Dumbarton Oaks. It is anything and everything that the civilian must vigilantly watch, scrutinize and criticize. And undisciplined system of government, he cannot conscientiously delegate that task of eternal vigilance to anybody. Not to the President. Not to Congress. It is his responsibility, the obligation of each citizen himself, for family, on Election Day, he has to decide for himself, and in the secrecy of his own heart, whether he is serving his country or is a vulgar thing without a mind and a will of his own.

It is nothing new in human history that when men are at war, forces get busy at home to change everything. The best example for us is the Prohibition of the last war, which gave us government by Al Capone and Dutch Schultz and Lepke and which remained with us until 1933. Aristophanes wrote a play about it, set in the year 411 B.C.—and I am not so sure that we are not suffering from too many Lysistratas these days—not only of too many women but too many who are trying to change our country behind the backs of our fighting men. Too many things are being done that can wait until the generation of fighting Americans can have their say. And, it is not a little distressing that some of these things are in demanding change behind the soldiers' backs, are of fighting age and condition, but who manage to stay home to take advantage of their peers.

Politicians prefer to forget about this obligation of the civilian to preserve his country's way of life during the war. And most of us are too concerned over our children to think about it. Yet, it is tremendously important that those of our sons who are pitting their lives against a cruel enemy should not return to disappointment.

DIET IMPORTANT

It is surprising to find so many men and women in their thirties and sixties who consider themselves old or getting old. They may have various symptoms such as stomach upsets, gas attacks, rheumatic pains, getting out of breath easily, and others, and feel that they must expect these symptoms as they are "growing old." Unfortunately they not only believe this themselves but try to impress it upon their families and friends. This is the wrong attitude if our older people are to be happy after fifty or sixty, and so, from time to time, I try to impress this on readers.

In the New England Journal of Medicine, Dr. R. J. Lee states "Society has taken a negative and an entirely defeatist attitude towards old age, an attitude that must be changed if improvement in the health of the old age group is to be achieved. Gall stones, "pockets" and inflammations of the intestines all increase in frequency with age. Appendicitis, usually a disease of young people, again becomes common after the age of sixty and should always be considered as a possible cause of abdominal symptoms in the elderly."

Proper food in quantity and quality is the most important factor in maintaining the health of the older person. While we may think that the value of vitamins is being overestimated in these days when food and nutrition are so much on our minds, nevertheless Dr. Lee and other research workers state that vitamins, especially the vitamin B complex group are of the utmost importance and must be in ample supply. The foods rich in the vitamin B complex group are lean beef, beef and calf liver, whole egg, beet greens, spinach, peas, wheat germ, yeast, salmon.

As we grow older it might be thought that as we become less active physically we should eat more nourishing foods so as to stimulate the large intestine and prevent constipation. However, Dr. Lee advises that rough foods and also fats be decreased as they are not well handled by the digestive system as we grow older.

Another point is that as the digestive and other juices of the body become less active, substances that from these juices—bile salts, pepsin, hydrochloric acid and thyroid extract—are of value in older persons.

The Wonderful Wizards of Washington—All Balled Up

"At Century's Turn" By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

In glancing back over the passing years to 1900, that year was one of great activity in the business life of the downtown section of the city. James E. Phinney, father of Police Chief Charles Phinney, was the mayor of the city that year.

Among the big stores downtown that year I recall the drygoods store of Broadhead & Van Wageningen at 18 East Strand, and Crocker & Ennis at 24 Broadway. Joseph Block had drygoods store at 36 East Strand, while Van Deussen Brothers had a big drug house at 14 East Strand.

Other drug stores downtown that year were the Connelly Drug Co. at 12 Broadway, George W. Johnston at 26 East Strand and Washington Laycock at 60 Broadway.

Conrad E. Hasbrouck and J. Townsend Johnson had hardware stores on the Strand, while on Ferry street William K. Johnston had his awning and sail shop, which is now being carried on by his son, W. Grant Johnston, at the same location.

Frank Bulton, an artesian well digger, was also located on East Strand.

Among the baker shops downtown were Mrs. M. W. Mellert at 88 Broadway; Mrs. Caroline Prommer at 62 Broadway; George Salzmann at 111 Abbot street; John W. Salzmann, Sr., 11 Seymour street; and Gustav Teichler at 145 Hasbrouck avenue. The outstanding furniture house was Stock and Cordis on lower Broadway, while on the Strand was the Wachmeyer furniture house.

Women and girls did up their own hair at the turn of the century and there were no beauty shops. There were many barber shops for the men and boys, however, and among them may be mentioned George Gunther at 2 Hasbrouck avenue; Harry T. Howard, 19 Hasbrouck avenue;

George S. Lang on the Strand; Ponckhokie; William F. Lange, 70 Broadway; Casper Lowerhouse in the old Mansion House; Patrick F. McDermott, 124 Hasbrouck avenue; Gus C. Rundel, on the Strand; James R. Skelton, on East Strand; William Smith, 1 Home street; George M. Thomas, 59 East Strand; and Henry W. C. Thomas of 161 Abbot street.

Armour Reef Co., with Jacob Forst as manager, was located on Ferry Street. Bicycles were all the rage in 1900 and among those dealing in bikes were E. G. Adams of 36 Hasbrouck avenue; Richard Freire of 46 Broadway, and Henry Terpening at 20 Abbot street.

Thomas W. Wadsworth had a bookbinding establishment at 25 Broadway, and among the news dealers were Andrew J. Murphy, 46 East Strand and Arthur Winter, 12 East Strand.

Among the shoe dealers were Sol Appel, 22 Broadway; William Forde, 74 Abbot street; Henkel & Deyo, 37 East Strand; Sol Hynes, 14 Broadway and Mrs. Addie Jacobs, 21 Broadway.

In addition to the big stores of Broadhead & Van Wageningen and Crocker & Ennis, a new addition to the downtown merchants was S. E. Eighmey who had a store at 19 Broadway, while Gussie Bug had a store at 42 Broadway.

There was also the store of Mrs. James Kenley on the Strand, the store of Simon Brothers at 24 Broadway, and Myer Weil & Son at 20 Broadway.

Among the grocery stores downtown were the Mison Brothers, Benjamin and Isaac, at 96 Broadway; Reckenwald Brothers at 63 Broadway; James Tongue & Son, 32 Broadway; Alonzo Van Buren on Broadway, at Abbot street; and John Weiss at 66 Broadway.

One of the best known meat markets in Kingston was that of Edward Weber on Broadway, at Abbot Street.

There were many other stores in the downtown business district that have not been mentioned in this sketch, but some day I will try and recall them to mind.

Manpower Legislation Is Regarded as Mixed Up Affair Showing Breakdown of Administration Leadership

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, March 29—Few things could illustrate better the breakdown of the administration's leadership, as well as the collapse of any leadership, Republican or Democratic, in Congress on a major issue than the hodge-podge that has been made of manpower legislation.

The public hasn't been told the facts, because the whole story puts the finger of blame on all the leaders and especially on the blunders of the administration in handling the manpower problem from the very beginning of the war.

The controversy is not of a partisan nature. It is the same old story of friction and divided responsibility inside the administration, jealousies between governmental agencies, and a refusal on the part of the President to face the consequences of more than three years of drifting on the manpower problem.

Behind the friction, too, is the incessant conflict between the military and civilian points of view. The War Department, which has done so well on the field of battle, has displayed in its intercourse with Congress and with governmental agencies generally a stupidity which is hardly describable as good "public relations." There is a distrust of army estimates in the civilian agencies in nearly everything largely because the army has hid its mistakes behind the cloak of censorship so that it is difficult even for members of Congress to get the facts.

The main conflict, of course, has been between the Selective Service System and the War Manpower Commission. These two agencies represent two different viewpoints in handling manpower. It is not believed to be wholly a matter of which agency should have the responsibility, but largely a difference in approach. Left to their own devices, the army administrators, who know so little about public psychology and especially about the psychology of the workers, would soon have the home front frustrated and then they probably would blame labor or management or both. The War Manpower Commission, on the other hand, thinks it understands the civilian problem better.

For a time on Capitol Hill certain members of Congress couldn't find out whether the higher-ups in the War Department favored one agency or the other to administer the measure. Finally the new bill agreed to by a conference committee of both Houses settled the matter over to James F. Byrnes. The fact that a man had to be selected who could be trusted presumably by all groups and who has had a knowledge of both civilian and military problems is proof that no agreement could have been had in Congress by selecting either the Selective Service System or the War Manpower Commission.

The public outside of Washington cannot get at these conflicts of views and feuds between departments or bureaus. It trusts Congress to do that job. But Congress has floundered and finally, in desperation appears ready to delegate blanket authority to one individual, realizing, of course, that he must in turn delegate it to others. No worse example perhaps can be found of delegation of power without legislative standards. Congress is no longer an alert legislative body standing up for its right to legislate or to prescribe standards. It is quiescent in any kind of an agreement that seems to pass the buck and transfer responsibility outside of the legislative branch.

But in the end, the public will suffer from the confusion and Congress will blame the President and the "Hate-Roosevelt" cry will be raised as the reason for the blame.

Mr. Roosevelt has a certain responsibility for the failure of his own agencies to get together on a control of manpower in the same way that America finally got a control of raw materials working. But the real fault lies with the way Congress is evading its legislative responsibility with a bill that places arbitrary power in government agencies and affords no court review for the citizen when arbitrariness has done its full damage. Not alone industries and businesses essential to the war effort but nonessential industries are going to be controlled by the new legislation. In the end, the measure will doubtless be interpreted so as to penalize the employer. As for workers who strike, they probably will be immune from interference because under the Wagner Act rule it is stipulated that an employee does not go off the payroll list but remains an employee even when he strikes. Some senators already are saying strikes are not banned by the new bill.

ERNIE PYLE'S COLUMN

In the Western Pacific (delayed)—All but six of our planes were back from their strike on Tokyo and safely landed.

The six formed a separate flight and we couldn't believe that all of them had been lost, and for that reason our officers didn't feel too concerned.

And then came a radio message from the flight leader. It said that one of the six was down in the ocean, and that the other five were hanging around to try to direct some surface vessel to his rescue. That's all we knew for hours. When we finally got the story, this was it:

Ensign Robert Buchanan, of Clementon, N. J., was hit by flak as they were diving on their target some 20 miles west of Tokyo. Buchanan himself was not hurt.

He kept his plane up till he got over water, but it was still very much Japanese water. In fact it was in Tokyo's outer bay—the bigger one of the two bays you see on the map leading in to Tokyo.

Ensign Buchanan is an ace, with five Jap planes to his credit. He ditched his plane successfully, and got out in his rubber boat. He was only eight miles from shore, and five miles from the big island that stands at the bay entrance.

Then the flight leader took charge. He is Lieut. John Fecke, of Danbury, Mass. He is also an ace, and an old hand at the game. He has downed seven Jap planes.

Fecke took the remaining four of the flight, and started out looking for an American rescue ship. They found one about 30 miles off the bay entrance.

They talked to him on the radio, told him the circumstances, and he sent back word he was willing to try. But he asked them to stick with him and give him support.

So Lieut. Fecke ordered the other four to stay and circle above the ship, while he went back to pick up Buchanan's location and guard him.

But when he got there, he couldn't find Buchanan. He flew for 25 minutes around Tokyo Bay and was about to despair, when he began getting sun flashes on his eyes.

He flew over about three miles and there was Buchanan. He had used his signal mirror, just like it says in the book.

In the meantime, the ship's gunnery was slow. It took almost two hours to get there. And one day the aerial escort began picking them up.

getting in trouble, and one by one Fecke ordered them home to our ship, which was getting farther away all the time.

Lieut. Irl Sonner, of Petaluma, Calif., lost use of his radio, and had to leave.

Lieut. Max Barnes, of Olympia, Wash., got dangerously low on gas, and Fecke sent him home. Gas shortage also sent back Lieut. Bob Murray of Muncie, Ind.

That left only Lieut. Fecke circling above the man in the boat, and Lieut. Arnold Berner, of Springfield, Ark., flying lone aerial escort for the rescue ship.

Finally the ship was past the bay entrance. The skipper began to have his doubts. He said to go within three miles of the gun-dotted island. He was within five minutes flying distance of land, and Jap planes could butcher him.

Furthermore he looked at his chart, and saw that he was in "restricted waters," meaning they were probably mined. It was certainly no place for a ship to be.

The skipper radioed Fecke and said he couldn't go any farther.

Fecke radioed back and said, "It's only two miles more. Please try."

The skipper answered and said, "Okay, we'll try."

And they pulled it off. They went right into the lion's mouth, pulled out one pilot, and got safely away. Then, and then only, did Fecke and Berner start home.

They came back to us three hours after all the rest had returned. They had down six hours on a three-hour mission. But they helped save an American life by doing so.

That night I lay in my bunk reading a copy of "Flying magazine." It was the issue of last October, nearly six months old. It was the annual Naval Aviation issue.

And in an article entitled "Life on a Carrier," on page 238, was this paragraph: "It's a mighty good feeling to know that even if you were shot down in Tokyo harbor, the ship would be in 'the bag'."

New Cross-Country Course at Stewart

Wallkill Valley Offers Desirable Terrain

Stewart Field squadron commanders and flying instructors have begun flying a 50-foot altitude cross-country course from the auxiliary field at Montgomery up the Wallkill river valley to Sussex, N. J.

After the course has been flown a month by instructors and supervisory personnel it will be used by all U.S.M.A. flying cadets, according to Lt. Col. Thomas S. Turverson, director of training.

Planes traversing the course may disturb some residents along the river valley, said Maj. Raymond J. Downey, director of flying, but it is the most deserted stretch suitable for such an altitude course in this part of the country, and it is felt the training value it affords the field's flying trainees will outweigh any inconvenience.

The course will be flown at varying hours of the day, as flying conditions and training schedules permit.

State Tax Auditor Here April 5 to 16

An auditor for the New York State Department of Taxation will be at the county court house here from April 5 through April 16 to assist taxpayers in filing their New York State personal income tax.

Urging taxpayers to let the state examiners help them with their state income tax problems, Director Roy H. Palmer at the same time advised earliest possible filing of returns. As of today, only about one out of eight taxpayers had filed their state returns. Two million or more are expected.

He reminded taxpayers of the state filing requirements: for single persons, $1,000 of net income and net capital gain; for married couples, $2,500 of net income and net capital gain; for anyone, $5,000 or more of gross income.

"Remember also that you are entitled to a 25 per cent reduction in your state income tax," he added. "Just compute your tax in the usual manner; then reduce your normal income tax and your net capital gains tax, if any, by one-fourth. The remainder is your tax. The reduction does not apply to the unincorporated business tax, also due April 16."

Krom Says Troops Forbidden To Be Warm To Germans

Corporal James G. Krom, son of Mr. and Mrs. James M. Krom of Lawrenceville street, who is combat engineer attached to General Patton's dashing Third Army now deep in Germany, writes from Germany under date of March 13 that he has found conditions in Germany little different from those which existed in eastern France and Luxembourg so far as terrain is concerned. However, he writes of an extremely different attitude of the American soldier toward the people of occupied German territory.

"There is not much change from eastern France or Luxembourg to look at but the people are a lot different," the engineer corporal writes, "and so are we toward them. We cannot talk or even smile back at those who are friendly. Many of them are glad to see us come and they wave from windows and doorways but we can only look away or give them a cold stare," he writes. This is in conformity with orders not to fraternize with people of conquered Germany.

At the time of writing he was billeted in a schoolhouse which only a short time had been used by German troops. His letter was written by the light of candles left behind by the retreating Germans and he tells of Sgt. Vincent Castiglione of Albany avenue attempting to fix a gasoline pressure lamp which the Germans abandoned in their haste to get away.

Others who are in his outfit but in other companies are Lawrence "Red" Winchell of Lake Katrine, Thomas Malone of Sawkill and Frank Nerone of Glasco.

Proclamation

Mayor William F. Edelmuth today issued the following Good Friday Proclamation:

"This nation, together with its allies in all parts of the world are fighting a war to restore to God mankind the right to worship Him as he sees fit.

During this Holy Week, the nations of the world are praying ardently that this conflict will be brought to an end soon so that our boys will return home safely.

And on this Good Friday we should all spend at least an hour in prayer supplicating God for his aid in comforting the peoples less fortunate than those in our own country.

As mayor of the City of Kingston, I respectfully request that all citizens of this city observe Good Friday in a spirit of prayer to the crucified Son of God.

Given under my hand this 29th day of March, one thousand nine hundred and forty-five.

WILLIAM F. EDELMUTH, Mayor.

New York Guard

Ed. Note: The State Guard is made up of citizen soldiers. Citizen soldiers are traditional in the United States. Never before have the duties of the Guard been more important and that importance increases as the war progresses.

Major Paul C. Baborg, G.S., N.Y.G., Public Relations Officer.

New York's Own 27th

Major General George W. Griner, commanding general of the 27th Division, has just sent to the New York Guard, copies of division posters for distribution in New York state.

Photographs show men of the division in action during its victorious progress from Hawaii to the Marianas. Dates on a map are monuments to their hard-won battles—Makin, November 20-24, 1943—Majuro, January 31, 1944—Eniwetok, February 19-20, 1944—Saipan, June 15-July 9, 1944. A prophetic bayonet transfixes the heart of Tokyo, with the slogan Tokyo Bound!

These posters add a thrilling and inspiring chapter to the history of New York's own 27th Infantry Division. The division's proud and glorious traditions go back to the Revolutionary War when some of its units were originally organized. In the Civil War and Spanish-American War, and on the Mexican border, units of the 27th again made their mark in history.

That mark, since World War I, has been a monogrammed "N. Y." (for the 27th's home state of New York) and superimposed on it the seven-star constellation of Orion (for the first, and World War I divisions commander, Major General John J. O'Rourke).

The red and black patch was worn in action at the Ypres-Lys offensive of the last war. It was seen in the thick of fighting at Mt. Kemmel, at Scherpenberg-Dickbusch, at Vierstraat Ridge. It designated the first division to smash through the Hindenburg Line in the great Somme offensive.

The poster reproduces a letter from General Griner to the men of the 27th Division. "You have a great tradition. Your division has played an important role in every conflict in which our country has engaged; it is playing a major part in the present struggle. I am proud to be the commanding general of such a division. I feel it a privilege to be one of you."

The New York (State) Guard, commanded by Lieut. General Hugh A. Drum, is proud of its privilege to carry on the traditions of its famous regiments. To fulfill its duties to the people of New York, the Guard must be maintained at full authorized strength. More than 5,000 volunteers, citizens between the ages of 17 and 35, are needed. Apply for enlistment at any armory.

The New York Guard needs men!

Good Taste Today

By Emily Post

(Author of "Etiquette" "Children Are People" etc.)

ONE YOUNG WOMAN IS SLOW TO WAKE UP

The affected attitude of a young woman described in a letter today from her mother might have been less surprising several years ago than it is now. Referring to her daughter, the mother says: "She thinks if gives her added importance to deliberately keep a boy friend waiting for as long as 15 minutes before coming downstairs. I think it makes him feel uncomfortable having to sit with the family all this time and I can't see how this will increase her popularity."

The truth is, it won't. Acquiring a reputation among her friends—girls as well as men—for habitually keeping them waiting is one very sure way of losing their interest. What's more, since the number of girls far exceeds that of men in civilian life, the typical man can hardly be expected to put up with having to sit around waiting for any one girl. A fact which most younger women have considered long ago!

Writing A Thank-you Note

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me if it is necessary to send a short note of thanks to the parents of an office associate at whose home I had dinner and unexpectedly stayed the night. If so, I suppose the note should be sent to her mother only.

Answer: After spending a night in someone's house, it is always necessary to write a brief and butter letter. After merely taking a meal, it is not. In this case you should write a short note to the mother. Had you stayed in your office friend's own apartment, naturally you would not write her a note when you see her every day.

The Bridal Table

Dear Mrs. Post: I am having difficulty choosing the one to sit at the bridal table at my wedding reception. Should they be just the wedding party or are others included, and if so, who should these others be?

Answer: Very intimate friends of the bride and bridegroom are sometimes included in addition to the members of the bridal party. Or, at other times, immediate families share a very large bridal table.

Suitable Teen-age Presents

Dear Mrs. Post: Please tell me what teen-age girls and boys may give to each other in the way of appropriate gifts?

Answer: Any inexpensive items that can not be classed as wearing apparel. And yet, a girl may perfectly well knit a boy-friend a sweater.

"The Bride's Trousseau" is a valuable guide for the girl planning to get married. Send a three-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope for this leaflet to Mrs. Post in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, Post Office Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Allied Captives Save Selves From Death in Germany

By DON WHITEHEAD

With the First Army, March 29 (AP)—Quick-thinking American and British captives being herded from German prisoner of war camp at Limburg saved themselves from a deadly attack by United States planes through a human alphabet maneuver reminiscent of between-halves formations by football cheering sections.

With Ninth Armored Division tanks roaring toward the ancient cathedral city, the routed Germans tried to cram some 2,000 of the Allied prisoners into box cars for a rush to the east. American fighterbombers, seeking out any moving rail stock, swooped in to bomb and strafe the train.

The Nazi guards fled. The prisoners broke open the doors, spilled into the fields nearby and, as the American planes dived for the kill, hastily formed lines spelling out the letters P. W. for prisoners of war.

The pilots veered away, but not before 34 men had been killed and 27 wounded.

When the Ninth Division moved up they discovered the Germans were packing even seriously wounded prisoners into boxcars and evacuating them from hospitals in the path of the First Army.

Officers said the Germans apparently had no hospital trains available to move the casualties, many of whom are in serious condition from lack of proper medical treatment and malnutrition. The enemy has neither ambulances nor gasoline to evacuate hospitals.

Battle Fatigue Vet Pays $320 for Sick Horse

New York, March 29 (AP)—Victor Porcelli, veteran of African and European battlefields, today reflected sadly on the niceties of horseflesh which left him with a sick nag of uncertain years in exchange for $320, most of it army-mustering out pay.

Porcelli, under treatment for battle fatigue and shock, told Magistrate Charles E. Ramsgate yesterday in Yorkville court that he bought a brown and white gelding from the firm of A. and M. Goldberg after army doctors told him to take up horseback riding for his health.

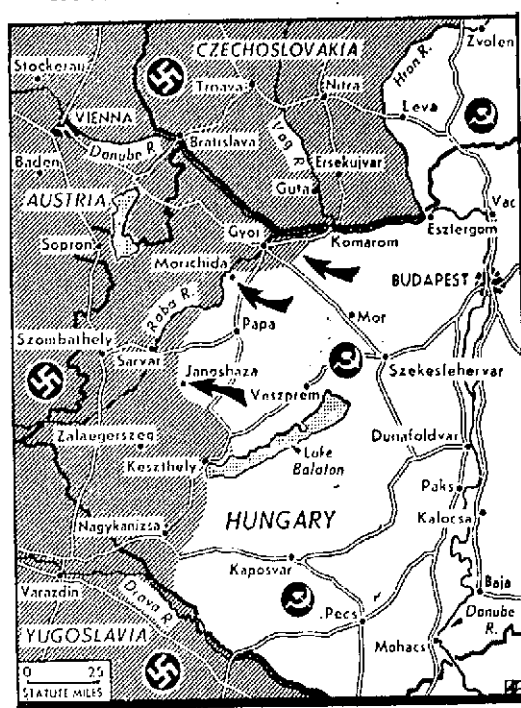

The veteran said he was told the horse was six years old. But later, Porcelli said, a veterinarian he had called in found the horse ill with distemper and said it was "twelve and maybe twenty" years old and that if it were gelded it would "drop in its tracks."

Magistrate Ramsgate issued a warrant for the arrest of Max Goldberg, a partner in the firm, when he failed to appear in answer to a summons.

Red Army Reaches Places Along Frontier of Austria

Killed in Action

Gyor in coordination with Tolbukhin. Soviet bombers and Stormoviks pounded the fortified junctions of Windorf, Neusiedl, Parndorf and Bruck, between Lake Neusiedler and the Danube. Bruck is 365 miles southeast of General Eisenhauer's front at Aschaffenburg.

It is good tank country and there was a possibility that Tolbukhin, lunging ahead in his characteristic style, would surge straight west into the mountains toward the big border cities of Goggenburg and Szombathely and the Austrian center of Graz and cut the main communication lines out of Yugoslavia and northeastern Italy.

He was about 65 miles from Graz.

Moscow announced last night the capture of Gyor and Komarom by the Second Ukrainian Army of Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky, coordinating with Marshal Fedor I. Tolbukhin's Third Ukrainian Army in a drive on the Austrian capital, now only 47 miles distant.

The twin operation blasting the Germans out of northwestern Hungary along a blazing 120-mile front scored one-day gains up to 17 miles and breached the Raba river natural defense line. A 29-mile wedge enveloping the junction of the river and the communications center of Sarvar, was driven by Tolbukhin's forces.

The two armies captured 200 Hungarian cities and communities, while other Red Army forces far to the north occupied the Baltic naval base of Gdynia and thrust into the western part of Danzig, port city 10 miles southeast.

These successes reflected the Russian strategy of speeding operations to clean out the last resisting Nazi Baltic pockets and free large Soviet forces to augment Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's First White Russian Army now poised along the Oder river east of Berlin.

The Germans said Zhukov's forces already had seized the fortress town of Lebus, on the west bank of the Oder five miles north of Frankfurt and 35 miles from the Nazi capital. A Moscow dispatch said the Russian supply system was "working all-out to prepare a spring offensive" on this front.

Arnold Says B-29 Blows Will Be Doubled
Washington, March 29 (AP)—What American air fleets have done to Germany "we are going to do to Japan," assert Gen. H. H. Arnold. He added that Superfortress blows against Japan's empire will be doubled or tripled by summer.

"That's why we will need all air force men to see that the war is finished," the chief of the Army Air Forces and the 20th (Superfortress) Air Force told a news conference yesterday.

"If the Japanese are unhappy now," Arnold said, "they'll soon be twice or three times as unhappy. We are going to use every airplane we can effectively use against Japan even if it requires every plane now used in Europe."

EISENHOWER CONGRATULATES HERO

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, fifth supreme Allied commander in the European theater, congratulated Sgt. James J. Spurr, Kingston, Va., first to be awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor in the U. S. Ninth Army. Spurr took place March 27. Sgt. Spurr is credited with killing 25 Germans and capturing 20 others, including a German command, single-handed. He also holds the Distinguished Service Cross. (AP Wirephoto via Signal Corps radio from Paris)

Measure Is Signed To Fix Prices for Products by Blind

Albany, N. Y., March 29 (AP)—State determination of the fair market price of products made by blind persons for sale to the state and municipalities is provided in a law signed today by Governor Dewey.

The measure also gives preference to the right of blind persons to sell their products to the state and other governmental agencies, except for other preferences provided in the state finance law, such as prison-made products.

Dewey said the "highly salutary measure" was "designed to broaden and stabilize the market for blind-made merchandise," adding: "It aids handicapped people in our society to maintain productivity not only for their own benefit but for the benefit of the whole community. It does so on a basis consistent with the fundamental initiative, characteristic of the American people and encourages the enterprise and economic independence of our blind citizens."

Another new measure which went on the statute books freezes an estimated surplus of $87,000,000 as of March 31, 1946, into the postwar reconstruction fund which already totals about $313,000,000. Dewey also signed the supplemental budget bill which increased 1945-46 appropriations from the general fund by $5,009,887 to total approximately $574,500,000. Additional measures approved by Dewey pushed the total of 1945 laws past the 300 mark. They include measures which:

Create a permanent salary standardization division in the civil service department with an appropriation of $50,000.

Continue until July 1, 1946, the emergency period for protection of holders of mortgage investments guaranteed by title and mortgage guaranty corporations and investment companies.

Bring into conformity the language of existing anti-discrimination statutes to prohibit bias because of race, creed, color or national origin in jury service, alcoholic beverage sales, public accommodations, public utility, civil service jobs, public schools, law practice and housing projects.

Prohibit, except in emergency, a driver of a vehicle from crossing a double line marked on the highway by the state traffic commission except where one line is broken and broken line is on same side as vehicle.

Presbytery Will Meet on April 17

North River Session Set for Poughkeepsie

The semi-annual meeting of the North River Presbytery will be held on April 17 in the First Presbyterian Church in Poughkeepsie, at which time it is expected the Presbytery will act on the unanimous call that the Rondout Presbyterian Church has extended to Robert E. Osman to become pastor of the church.

The call will be prosecuted at the Presbytery meeting by W. W. Scott, S. H. Peyer and Mrs. Arthur H. Russell, representing the church.

Mr. Osman for the past six months has been serving as student pastor of the church. He is a student at the Princeton Theological Seminary in Princeton, N. J., and will graduate this spring. Tentative plans are being made for the ordination of Mr. Osman as a Presbyterian minister at ordination services to be held in the Rondout Presbyterian Church. The Rev. Dr. Edward H. Roberts, dean of Princeton Theological Seminary, has accepted the invitation extended him by the session of the downtown church to preach the ordination sermon. The call to Mr. Osman to become pastor of the church was extended at the annual church meeting held earlier in the year.

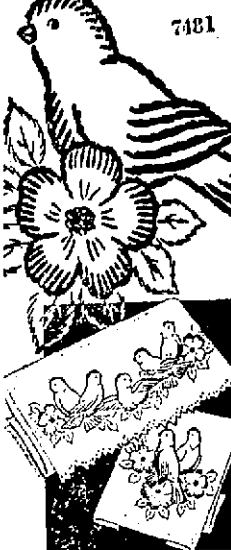

Gov. Dewey Proclaims Sunday School Week

Albany, N. Y., March 29 (AP)—Governor Dewey, proclaiming the week of April 9-15 as Sunday School Week, declared today it was "proper and vital x x x that we encourage by every means attendance at Sunday school."

"The motto adopted for our country by its founders has established us from the first as a nation which trusts in God," Dewey said. "Today it is more necessary than ever to impress upon the hearts and minds of our people the importance of acquiring and keeping alive our faith in the Supreme Being."
